Last month we purchased a new truck for the Field Operations due to a pickup freeze plug rupturing, at the time I discussed that we were having problems with the 2002 1-ton dump trucks. That truck had been in for diagnosis and the rocker arm wore allowing the cam to wear inside of the shaft and ultimately break on that truck. The truck is a diesel and we have gotten a quote to remove and replace the engine of the truck for $23,000. I asked Tim and Fred to look around at used trucks and new trucks so that we could make an educated decision on the path forward. They were able to find 2019 1 ton truck with a 9' bed for $47,967. I am recommending the purchase of the 2019 truck vs repairing the current vehicle. Cost will be split between Water, Sewer, Street and Park.

Respectfully,
